

We feel this proposal places an unnecessary and expensive burden, particularly on small market broadcasters, who already struggle with managing limited resources of money and manpower. Also, the very market size they are in dictates that they can ill afford to offend listeners by using inappropriate content.